Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 03 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Turning brighter and more settled later this week.

This Evening and Tonight:
Mostly cloudy, and misty with fog patches for large parts of England and Wales. Evening showers over England and Wales slowly become confined to parts of southeastern UK by dawn. Further north, rain and hill snow for parts of Scotland.

Thursday:
Mostly cloudy start, and early fog patches over parts of England and Wales. Northern and eastern UK then becoming brighter and breezy, many other areas remaining fairly cloudy.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Dry at first with sunny spells and overnight frosts. Likely continuing dry for the south and east, while cloud and patchy rain pushes into parts of the north and west.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.